Acklam and Middlesbrough, St. Mary

PR/ACK

A church is thought to have stood on this site for over a thousand years. A medieval chapel was rebuilt around 1770 and a new church was built around 1874 by the Hustler family of Acklam Hall. An extension to the north side of the church was added in 1957.

This church was used by the early inhabitants of Middlesbrough until the church of St Hilda opened in 1840. During this time, the baptisms and marriages were recorded separately for the inhabitants of Middlesbrough and Acklam, resulting in two registers covering the same time period.

Thornaby, St. Marks

PR/TT(M)

Started as the Trafalgar Street Mission when Charles Arthur Head and Thomas Wrightson gave land on Trafalgar Street for a church in 1884, which became known as 'the church in the alley' due to access restrictions. The building was consecrated in 1884 but the earliest reference to the dedication to St. Mark only appears after the First World War. In 1935 the church was relocated to Chapel Street and consecrated the same year. With numbers declining following the Second World War services moved to St. Paul's Parish Church and the Chapel Street site was sold in 1963. A new church was built in 1969 at Trenchard Avenue and dedicated in 1970.
